

Guide lines self programming.

After passing basic education (2 semesters for students enrolled in landscape architecture), students can be granted a self-programmed course.

As a rule, the possibility of self-study program courses is only for studio courses (24 ECTS). Self-programming of elective course can only take place in special cases; when the student studies being held abroad or the course contains a topic that is particularly interesting to be highlighted.

A self-programmable course is intended for students with such good background knowledge that the head of institute finds it reasonable to let the student implement this. The student can not deviate from his/her study progression. The head of institute is responsible for assessing the student's academic level and progression before any approval. The institute's current resources can also limit self-programming.
